MAY NAME DAWES AMBASSADOR

HE WHO CONDEMNED DIPLOMATS SLATED FOR GREAT BRITAIN

Would Be Taken As Attempt To Reform Entire Corps

WASHINGTON, March 13.—Former Vice President Charles G. Dawes, the man who condemned with such expletives as "Hell and Maria," wartime diplomatic representatives of the United States, is being considered for the highest diplomatic post, the ambassadorship to Great Britain, according to reports in well informed quarters here.

Dawes called the American diplomats in Paris "pink tea diplomats" and told a house investigating committee he had more trouble with them than with any other persons with whom he dealt in his war office as head of the commissary department of the American expeditionary forces.

The report has caused interesting speculation in diplomatic quarters where the appointment would be interpreted as an effort to reform the whole American diplomatic corps.

The appointment would be in line with the departure from tradition which former President Coolidge took when he appointed a member of the firm of J. P. Morgan and Company, Dwight Morrow, as ambassador to Mexico.

Recently there has been much discussion between Great Britain and the United States which has done nothing to promote good feeling between the nations.

Dawes is an extreme departure from the type frequently selected as American diplomats. He is regarded as outspoken in domestic problems to a degree not relished by some American politicians. His financial experience and his knowledge of European problems would however make him an ideal appointee. He is wealthy enough to be able to enjoy the career of a diplomat which is long on honors but short on salary.

Dawes left here last week immediately after the inauguration and went to his home near Chicago, announcing he would return to his banking business. He is contemplating a trip soon to the Dominican Republic to reorganize its financial structure. Dawes worked against the president more or less in the pre-convention campaign as a supporter of former Gov. Lowden of Illinois.

EVANSTON, Ill., March 13.—Gen. Charles G. Dawes refused to make any comment today on Washington reports that he probably will be offered the ambassadorship to England.

It is understood that the former vice president is planning a trip to Europe after his return from San Domingo where he will aid in reorganization of that country's finances, but Dawes would not comment on this report either.

FATHER OF SIX CHILDREN KILLS WIFE AFTER FAMILY QUARREL

YOUNGSTOWN, O., March 13.—Sitting in his cell in the county jail here today, George Levy, 39, a railroad brakeman, calmly related how he killed his wife, 35, the mother of six children, because he suspected her of infidelity.

The shooting occurred at the home of Victoria Wallace where Mrs. Levy fled after a bitter quarrel with her husband. Levy followed her, he said, and entering the Wallace home demanded that she return home with him.

"Why don't you come home and take care of the kiddies?" he asked her. He said his wife replied that "the kids can take care of themselves" and that she wasn't going home.

Levy had armed himself before leaving the house. He pulled the gun from his pocket and while the Wallace family looked on, horrified, fired four bullets into her body.

Levy offered no resistance when he was arrested. He said he was not sorry. "She neglected the kids," he declared.

KIDNAPING TRIAL STARTED

HOUSE APPROVES OF PENCE REPEAL BILL FOLLOWING CAUCUS

Rules Committee Becomes Calendar Committee

COLUMBUS, O., March 13.—The house today began operating with the rules committee functioning as a "jitney" or calendar committee with authority to designate the bills to be considered each day.

A resolution by Floor Leader Hamilton authorizing the rules committee to prepare a calendar was adopted by the house after opposition led by Rep. Ray C. Carpenter, Seneca County, had been steam rolled into submission.

The senate adopted a similar resolution last week. In both bodies the "jitney" committee resolution was sponsored by the leaders as a means of expediting the legislative program and in order to shorten the duration of the session.

Carpenter, in opposing the resolution in the house, declared its adoption meant that the representatives would surrender their power to "a handful of members" who constitute the committee.

The house then recessed to permit the Republican majority members to caucus on the Carpenter bill, to repeal the Pence utility rate law.

The caucus agreed upon minor amendments and the bill was rushed through without further delay and without an opposing vote. The house amendments were at once approved by the senate, and the bill was started on the way to Governor Cooper, who had pledged repeal of the law during his campaign.

The "teachers' tenure" bill, brought before every legislature in recent years, received its usual treatment at the hands of the lawmakers when the house again rejected it by vote of 82 to 34. The bill, introduced by Rep. L. J. Abels, Cleveland, was almost unanimously opposed by the representatives from rural districts.

The bill by Rep. Henry H. Metcalf, Columbus, to provide an additional judge for the Columbus municipal court, was approved by the house without an opposing vote. The measure now goes to the senate.

The house also approved, without a dissenting vote, the "uniform" veterans' guardian bill, by Rep. Herman L. Vail, Cleveland.

The measure, sponsored by the American Legion, is designed to safeguard the interests of war veterans for whom guardians are appointed in order to facilitate the work of the federal veterans' bureau with regard to the handling of such cases.

Regular proceedings of the house were interrupted long enough for the presentation of verbal bouquets to David S. Ingalls, Cleveland, "flying legislator," who presented his resignation as state representative in order to accept appointment by President Hoover as assistant secretary of navy in charge of aviation.

As the governor has been urging haste on the part of both houses in the passage of the Pence bill it is regarded as certain that he will lose no time in attaching his signature and making it a law.

The repeal of the Pence law leaves the public utility commission free to determine what proposed rates are just and reasonable. Under the provisions of the Pence law, when a utility applied for an increase the commission had the power to suspend the rate for 120 days. If after the expiration of that time the commission had not determined what the rate should be, the utility was empowered to put the rate in force and collect it under bond filed with the commission.

Under the new practice as defined by the Carpenter bill, a utility, coming under the jurisdiction of the commission, is obliged to file its application together with an inventory of its property. The commission shall then proceed to determine whether the increase asked is just and reasonable but no increase will be permitted until the commission has reached its decision.

Asa G. Candler, Wealthy Coca Cola King, Is Dead

ATLANTA, Ga., March 13.—Atlanta and the South mourned today the passing of one of its wealthiest and most romantic men, Asa G. Candler, "the Coca Cola king," who lacking in romance of a kind that brought him some notoriety.

Mrs. Henry Heinz, only daughter of Candler, was with him when the end came shortly after 4 p. m. His four sons had been summoned and were on their way to the hospital at the moment of death.

The turn in his condition which resulted in death came a week ago.

The story of the founder of the Coca Cola Company is a story of another American who achieved great wealth after being born of poor, farming parents.

With a capital of $250, the young Candler came to Atlanta from near Villa Rica, Ga., at the age of 21 after doing his share to reclaim the farm which was all but ruined during the Civil War. He went to work in a drug store where he toiled until his father died in 1873. Returning to his home, he remained some five years, and again sought his future in Atlanta.

He made his first start in business in partnership with the late N. B. Hallman in the drug business. He purchased his partner's interest after four years, and ran the firm alone for six years thereafter.

In 1888 Candler started the manufacture of Coca Cola. The first Coca Cola factory was a small shed, and the kettle in which the syrup was mixed was stirred by himself. Only 500 gallons of the beverage was sold the first year.

Candler was for one term mayor of Atlanta, during 1917-18.

In addition to his widespread charitable donations, Candler, on more than one occasion came to the rescue of southern business men, throwing his millions into the breach when it seemed almost a certainty he was giving it away.

In 1878 Candler married Lucy Howard, daughter of his first employer in Atlanta. She died in 1922 and three years later Candler was sued for $500,000 by Onezima de Bouchelle of New Orleans, who accused him of breach of promise.

She lost the suit.

In June 1923 he married Mrs. May Little Raglin, a widow, who had been his stenographer.

RAILROADERS RESCUED AS FIRE
DESTROYS WILLARD HOTEL

WILLARD, O., March 13.—Fifteen railroaders were rescued from the upper stories of the Franklin Hotel here early today when fire swept through the three story frame structure, destroying it.

One man, Basil La Bounty, yardmaster for the Baltimore and Ohio and a regular resident of the hotel, is missing. It is believed, however, that he was spending the night in Bellevue.

The Griffin and Meier meat market adjoining the hotel was destroyed and the Erman Bradley grocery was badly damaged. The loss was estimated at $20,000 by Night Police Chief Homer Scherbundy, who aided in the rescue work.

The fire was discovered at 3:50 a. m. Volunteer fire-fighters rushed to the scene but the flames had eaten through the building so rapidly that they could do little.

Aid was summoned from Norwalk.

In the meantime, the volunteers, lead by Chief Scherbundy and Patrolman Max Valkenburg raised the ladders to the upper stories of the hotel and aided fifteen men in getting out. Ten others escaped without aid.

Lester Hunsinger, manager of the hotel, insisted on staying and some difficulty was experienced in getting him out, Chief Scherbundy reported.

FATHER OF MISSING BOY TESTIFIES AS ARNOLD CASE OPENS

Prosecution Says Child's Fate Rests On Testimony

WOOSTER, O., March 13.—Raymond Horst, father of Melvin Horst, 4, was the first witness today in the trial of Elias "Nul" Arnold and his son, Arthur, for the alleged kidnaping of the boy in Orrville two days after Christmas.

He said he last saw the child on the morning of Dec. 27. He testified he returned home from work at 5 p. m. Almost immediately he called Melvin. He said then with Ralph Horst, 9, his oldest son, he started a fruitless search.

An hour later Orrville officials were notified. At 8:30 p. m. a blast of the fire siren called out the entire citizenship of the village.

Horst described little Melvin minutely. He told of a scar on the child's left hip, the result of a fall against a stove.

The witness said he didn't know Elias or Arthur Arnold before the abduction.

On a map hung in the courtroom, Horst indicated the location of his house and that of the Arnold family. Village Marshal Roy Horst, uncle of Melvin, did not live with Raymond's family at the time of the abduction, he testified.

"It's a picture of my boy," he whispered. He studied the exhibit for a full two minutes.

On cross examination Horst denied he ever had been forced to hunt Melvin before the night of the abduction. Sleepless nights and days of feverish searching were reviewed by the father.

The defense scored when Horst admitted that Arthur Arnold and Bascom McHenry, his brother-in-law, suggested to him that he rent blood hounds to trace the child.

Mrs. Zorah Horst was the second witness. Her voice broke when she told of missing the boy at 4:30 p. m. December 27. Mrs. Horst's slim figure was clothed in a cream colored woolen frock. She wore a small turban. The witness, suffering from a bad cold, had difficulty in making herself heard.

Upon the testimony of half a dozen witnesses depends the immediate fate of Melvin Horst, 4, in the opinion of County Prosecutor Marion Graven, Special Prosecutor Walter A. Mougey and Detective Ora Slater who are attempting to convict Elias "Nul" Arnold and his son Arthur of stealing Melvin ubiquitous and inquisitive lad who loved to explore old barns and wander across the little village where he made his home.

If the Arnolds are convicted, the three predict Melvin almost immediately will return to his family and playmates.

Cards on the table is the order of business in the trial before Judge George A. Starn today.

Within the next few hours, the jury of seven men and five women will hear all the key witnesses for the state which will attempt a three-sided structure of evidence to prove:

Corpus delicti—that Melvin Horst, a bright adventurous boy of 4 did live in the village of Orrville and that he disappeared Dec. 27.

Motive—that the two Arnolds spent many days behind the bars of Orrville and Wayne County jails and that they blamed Roy Horst, village marshal and uncle of Melvin.

Commission of the crime: That Melvin was lured into the Arnolds' yard and later was snatched away in an automobile driven by Arthur Arnold, 17, and that "Nul" aided in the kidnaping.

FEDERALS PREPARE FOR FINAL ATTACK; SALTILLO VACATED

Rebels Desert City As Calles Force Moves North

The Mexican federal government prepared today to strike what it believed would be a death blow to the insurrection which broke out in two sections of the Republic eleven days ago.

The capital expressed confidence that the desertion of rebel troops and federal victories in the state of Coahuila marked the beginning of the collapse of the revolt.

Plutarco Elias Calles took advantage of the federal victory at Saltillo to urge his advance troops ahead in pursuit of rebels retreating to Torreon and to push the federal column steadily toward the city of Durango. Torreon and the area are the objectives of two federal columns operating along the railroad line from Canitas.

Meanwhile, the government announced that 1,600 rebels had deserted in the state of Sonora, of whom approximately 1,200 surrendered at Naco. With federals in command of Naco, the insurgent forces in the far west will be cut off from the rebel stronghold of Torreon.

Border reports said rebels were preparing an attack to recapture Naco and were rushing large reinforcements to Torreon to support General Escobar's troops there.

The situation at Mazatlan, a port city in the state of Sinaloa, was uncertain. The government claimed that the rebels had started retreating from Sinaloa due to desertions, but border reports said rebel leaders were anticipating a battle shortly for possession of the port, which is held by federals.

MONTEREY, NUEVO LEON, Mexico, March 13.—Mexican government forces today held the important railroad town of Saltillo, the first prize to fall into their hands in the advance of federal troops toward the rebel stronghold at Torreon.

Saltillo was evacuated last night by about 1,500 rebels after Gen. Juan Almazan, dapper federal commander, had completed plans for attacking the town at dawn. The rebels presumably retired toward Torreon.

Optimistic over this bloodless victory, the three federal forces representing one of the most determined military moves ever undertaken by the government, advanced today toward rebel territory.

Almazan, who began his march from here yesterday, entered Saltillo, left a contingent of troops to restore service on the important rail artery from Mexico to Laredo and continued westward in pursuit of the rebels.

North of Saltillo, at the rail junction of Gordon, Gen. Eulogio Ortiz attempted to flank the revolutionary forces. From the south came Gen. Calles with his army.

Meanwhile, the revolutionary commander, Gen. Gonzales Escobar held Torreon and territory eastward about 150 miles to Sal

The bill by Rep. Henry H. Metcalf, Columbus, to provide an additional judge for the Columbus municipal court, was approved by the house without an opposing vote. The measure now goes to the senate.

The house also approved, without a dissenting vote, the "uniform" veterans' guardian bill, by Rep. Herman L. Vail, Cleveland.

The measure, sponsored by the American Legion, is designed to safeguard the interests of war veterans for whom guardians are appointed and to facilitate the work of the federal veterans' bureau with regard to the handling of such cases.

Regular proceedings of the house were interrupted long enough for the presentation of verbal bouquets to David S. Ingalls, Cleveland, the "flying legislator," who presented his resignation as state representative in order to accept appointment by President Hoover as assistant secretary of navy in charge of aviation.

The governor has been urging haste on the part of both houses in the passage of the Pence bill it is regarded as certain that he will lose no time in attaching his signature and making it a law.

The repeal of the Pence law leaves the public utility commission free to determine what proposed rates are just and reasonable. Under the provisions of the Pence law, when a utility applied for an increase the commission had the power to suspend the rate for 120 days. If after the expiration of that time the commission had not determined what the rate should be, the utility was empowered to put the rate in force and collect it under bond filed with the commission.

Under the new practice as defined by the Carpenter bill, a utility, coming under the jurisdiction of the commission, is obliged to file its application together with an inventory of its property. The commission shall then proceed to determine whether the increase asked is just and reasonable but no increase will be permitted until the commission has reached its decision.

take care of the kiddies?" he asked her. He said his wife replied that "the kids can take care of themselves" and that she wasn't going home.

Levy had armed himself before leaving the house. He pulled the gun from his pocket and while the Wallace family looked on horrified, fired four bullets into her body.

Levy offered no resistance when he was arrested. He said he was not sorry. "She neglected the kids," he declared.

Asa G. Candler, Wealthy Coca Cola King, Is Dead

ATLANTA, Ga., March 13.—Atlanta and the South mourned today the passing of one of the wealthiest and most romantic men, Asa G. Candler, "the Coca Cola king," who lacking in romance of a kind that brought him some notoriety.

Mrs. Henry Heinz, only daughter of Candler, was with him when the end came shortly after 4 p. m. His four sons had been summoned and were on their way to the hospital at the moment of death.

The turn in his condition which resulted in death came a week ago.

The story of the founder of the Coca Cola Company is a story of another American who achieved great wealth after being born of poor, farming parents.

With a capital of $250, the young Candler came to Atlanta from near Villa Rica, Ga., at the age of 21 after doing his share to reclaim the farm which was all but ruined during the Civil War. He went to work in a drug store where he toiled until his father died, in 1873. Returning to his home, he remained some five years, and again sought his future in Atlanta.

He made his first start in business in partnership with the late N. B. Hallman in the drug business. He purchased his partner's interest after four years, and ran the firm alone for six years thereafter.

In 1888 Candler started the manufacture of Coca Cola. The first Coca Cola factory was a small shed, and the kettle in which the syrup was mixed was stirred by himself. Only 500 gallons of the beverage was sold the first year.

Candler was for one term mayor of Atlanta, during 1917-18.

In addition to his widespread charitable donations, Candler, on more than one occasion came to the rescue of southern business men, throwing his millions into the breach when it seemed almost a certainty he was giving it away.

In 1878 Candler married Lucy Howard, daughter of his first employer in Atlanta. She died in 1922 and three years later Candler was sued for $50,000 by Onezima de Bouchelle of New Orleans, who accused him of breach of promise. She lost the suit.

In June 1923 he married Mrs. May Little Ragin, a widow, who had been his stenographer.

The career of the soft drink magnate, while bristling with evidence to prove his business sagacity and charitableness of nature, is not lacking in romance of a kind that brought him some notoriety.

FATHER OF MISSING BOY TESTIFIES AS ARNOLD CASE OPENS

Prosecution Says Child's Fate Rests On Testimony

WOOSTER, O., March 13.—Raymond Horst, father of Melvin Horst, 4, was the first witness today in the trial of Elias "Nul" Arnold and his son, Arthur, for the alleged kidnapping of the boy in Orrville two days after Christmas.

He said he last saw the child on the morning of Dec. 27. He testified he returned home from work at 5 p. m. Almost immediately he called Melvin. He said then with Ralph Horst, 9, his oldest son, he started a fruitless search.

An hour later Orrville officials were notified. At 8:30 p. m. a blast of the fire siren called out the entire citizenry of the village.

Horst described little Melvin minutely. He told of a scar on the child's left hip, the result of a fall against a stove.

The witness said he didn't know Elias or Arthur Arnold before the abduction.

On a map hung in the court room, Horst indicated the location of his house and that of the Arnold family. Village Marshal Roy Horst, uncle of Melvin, did not live with Raymond's family at the time of the abduction, he testified.

"It's a picture of my boy," he whispered. He studied the exhibit for a full two minutes.

On cross examination Horst denied he ever had been forced to help Melvin before the night of the abduction. Sleepless nights and days of feverish searching were reviewed by the father.

The defense scored when Horst admitted that Arthur Arnold and Bascom McHenry, his brother-in-law, suggested to him that he rent blood hounds to trace the child.

Mrs. Zorah Horst was the second witness. Her voice broke when she told of missing the boy at 4:30 p. m. December 27. Mrs. Horst's slim figure was clothed in a cream colored woolen frock. She wore a small turban. The witness, suffering from a bad cold, had difficulty in making herself heard.

Upon the testimony of half a dozen witnesses depends the immediate fate of Melvin Horst, 4, in the opinion of County Prosecutor Max Graves, Special Prosecutor Walter A. Mouzey and Detective Ora Slater who are attempting to convict Elias "Nul" Arnold and his son Arthur of stealing Melvin, ubiquitous and inquisitive lad who loved to explore old barns and wander across the little village where he made his home.

If the Arnolds are convicted, the three predict Melvin almost immediately will return to his family and playmates.

Cards on the table is the order of business in the trial before Judge George A. Starn today.

Within the next few hours, the jury of seven men and five women will hear all the key witnesses for the state which will attempt a three-sided structure of evidence to prove.

Corpus delicti—that Melvin Horst, a bright adventurous boy of 4 did live in the village of Orrville and that he disappeared Dec. 27.

Motive—that the two Arnolds spent many days behind the bars of Orrville and Wayne County jails and that they blamed Roy Horst, village marshal and uncle of Melvin.

Commission of the crime: That Melvin was lured into the Arnolds' yard and later was snatched away in an automobile driven by Arthur Arnold, 17, and that "Nul" aided in the kidnapping.

Criticism of Nobile's conduct in permitting himself to be rescued by airplane from the ice floe before his men were saved was climaxed eight days ago by the report of Premier Benito Mussolini's commission fixing responsibility.

ROME, March 13.—Gen. Umberto Nobile, leader of the dirigible Italia expedition to the north pole last summer, has resigned his rank and office and the resignation has been accepted. It was officially announced here today.

BIBLE WILL TRY FOR NEW MARK

DAYTON, Fla., March 13.—Under an overcast sky the four-ton speed car "Triplex" waits today with its 42-year-old mechanic-driver, Lee Bible, for a chance to better the speed record of 231 miles per hour set by the Englishman Major H. O. D. Segrave.

The J. M. White car looks and performed yesterday in great shape though Bible seemed disappointed with his trial speed test of about 180 miles per hour.

Wind and a foggy beach prevented the "Triplex" from taking a real shot at Segrave's mark.

Major Segrave is still at the beach. Weather permitting he said he might try to boost his own record tomorrow to 240 miles.

FOURTH ESSAY IN LEGION CONTEST

The following essay by Granville Hudson, 17, 171 Columbus Road, is the fourth among the first ten in the American Legion contest on "What Constitutes Good Citizenship?"

"WHAT CONSTITUTES GOOD CITIZENSHIP?"

The exercising of franchise, intelligence and watchfulness are three points that work together toward the development of a good citizen.

A citizen is watchful and keeps himself informed of all the important issues and topics of his government. He is able to debate, discuss or put into writing, intelligently, forcefully and convincingly, his opinions on any issue in such a way as is most helpful for the bettering of his own condition, that of his fellowman and the advancement of his government.

It is his duty to know what he is voting on and to vote, not to suit his convenience but he must think and vote in a way that does the most good.

As a true citizen demands respect for his beliefs and character, so must he give the same respect due the beliefs and character of others. He is broad minded and always decides in favor of building up or advancement rather than for the lowering of any standard. He also respects the property of others, is cheerful and does not shirk any possible duty. A citizen realizes the needs and ambitions of his fellow citizens; it being in his power to help others attain success; as he is gaining it or after he has gained his desire in life, he gives his aid cheerfully and willingly wherever it is needed. He is always in readiness to exercise his force and authority to any duty that comes his way.

The ideal citizen upholds decency and honesty, is an exerciser of the same; and therefore serves as an example to others, who not so fortunate as he, are struggling to attain true citizenship.

Anything a citizen begins to do he goes into it with a will, puts forth vigor and zeal, works with unity to accomplish his goal. This having been reached he does not become satisfied, but works onward and upward to higher ideals.

To be a citizen, loyal to the government and its cause any person has to eliminate narrowness and prejudice; that is to bear in mind that all men regardless of birth, nationality or color, were created equal by one Maker, the true God.

A man does not have to be wealthy or to hold a high position to be a good citizen; if he has the right kind of heart, open, just and impartial, is upright and decent on all occasions, brave and courageous in all danger; has common sense and intelligence, not only has it, but has the ability to use it when it is most needed and use it honestly and wisely; then that man is a first class citizen!

The words of Jesus, "Treat thy Neighbor as thyself," the Golden Rule, "Do unto others as you would have others do unto you," combined with the preceding statements and a close communion with God develops a citizen in whom "Uncle Sam" sees a bright future.

CAR SOME GOOD

ALBANY, N. Y., March 21.—It isn't often that the cause of the trouble is the means of salvation, but when Arthur Nett, 17, of this city, was arraigned in court charged with four traffic law violations, the ancient vehicle he drove saved him from a possible fifty-five-day jail term.

Nett was stopped for passing red lights. The officer found that Nett had no operator's license, falsified his age to get license plates and that the car itself had ineffective brakes.

Fines on the several violations totaled $55—or 55 days. Nett phoned a junk dealer, sold the car for that amount and walked home.

SPECIAL GRAND JURY SESSION
STARTS IN COURT WEDNESDAY

The January grand jury, recalled into special session by Judge R. L. Gowdy, convened in Common Pleas Court Wednesday morning to begin consideration of sixteen cases involving fourteen persons, which have accumulated on the criminal docket within the last several months.

About forty witnesses have been subpoenaed for examination by the grand jury and since Prosecutor J. Carl Marshall expressed the belief the jury could not complete its investigation of all the cases in a one-day session, it is believed to be the intention of the court to have the examining tribunal finish its work next Wednesday.

A jury trial is assigned for Thursday making it inconvenient for the grand jury to complete its deliberations in two successive days.

Cases docketed for consideration are as follows: Nathan Mahaffey, Robert Nooks, Martin Nooks and Adeline Woodson, each charged with larceny; John Henry Menu, assault; Oscar Montgomery, two counts for burglary; Robert Johnston, two counts for robbery; John Doan, Thomas Moore and Jack McCabe, each charged with auto theft; Leonard Lynch, forgery; Sanford Miller, operating an auto without the owner's consent, and Harry Duncan and Robert Johnson, each accused of arson.

He is able to debate, discuss or put into writing, intelligently, forcefully and convincingly his opinions on any issue in such a way as is most helpful for the bettering of his own condition, that of his fellowman and the advancement of his government.

It is his duty to know what he is voting on and to vote, not to suit his convenience but he must think and vote in a way that does the most good.

As a true citizen demands respect for his beliefs and character, so must he give the same respect due the beliefs and character of others. He is broad minded and always decides in favor of building up or advancement rather than of the lowering of any standard. He also respects the property of others, is cheerful and does not shirk any possible duty. A citizen realizes the needs and ambitions of his fellow citizens; it being in his power to help others attain success; as he is gaining it or after he has gained his desire in life, he gives his aid cheerfully and willingly wherever it is needed. He is always in readiness to exercise his force and authority to any duty that comes his way.

The ideal citizen upholds decency and honesty, is an exerciser of the same; and therefore serves as an example to others, who not so fortunate as he, are struggling to attain true citizenship.

Anything a citizen begins to do he goes into it with a will, puts forth vigor and zeal, works with unity to accomplish his goal.

This having been reached he does not become satisfied, but works onward and upward to higher ideals.

To be a citizen, loyal to the government and its cause any person has to eliminate narrowness and prejudice; that is to bear in mind that all men regardless of birth, nationality or color, were created equal by one Maker, the true God.

A man does not have to be wealthy or to hold a high position to be a good citizen; if he has the right kind of heart; open, just and impartial, is upright and decent on all occasions, brave and courageous in all danger, has common sense and intelligence, not only has it, but has the ability to use it when it is most needed and use it honestly and wisely; then that man is a first class citizen!

The words of Jesus, "Treat thy Neighbor as thyself," the Golden Rule, "Do unto others as you would have others do unto you," combined with the preceding statements and a close communion with God develops a citizen in whom "Uncle Sam" sees a bright future.

CAR SOME GOOD

ALBANY, N. Y., March 15.—It isn't often that the cause of the trouble is the means of salvation, but when Arthur Nett, 17, of this city, was arraigned in court charged with four traffic law violations, the ancient vehicle he drove saved him from a possible fifty-five-day jail term.

Nett was stopped for passing red lights. The officer found that Nett had no operator's license, falsified his age to get license plates and that the car itself had ineffective brakes.

Fines on the several violations totaled $55—or 55 days. Nett phoned a junk dealer, sold the car for that amount and walked home.

SPECIAL GRAND JURY SESSION STARTS IN COURT WEDNESDAY

The January grand jury, recalled into special session by Judge R. L. Gowdy, convened in Common Pleas Court Wednesday morning to begin consideration of sixteen cases involving fourteen persons, which have accumulated on the criminal docket within the last several months.

About forty witnesses have been subpoenaed for examination by the grand jury and since Prosecutor J. Carl Marshall expressed the belief the jury could not complete its investigation of all the cases in a one-day session, it is believed to be the intention of the court to have the examining tribunal finish its work next Wednesday.

A jury trial is assigned for Thursday making it inconvenient for the grand jury to complete its deliberations in two successive days.

Cases docketed for consideration are as follows: Nathan Mahaffey, Robert Nooks, Martin Nooks and Adeline Woodson, each charged with larceny; John Henry Menu, assault; Oscar Montgomery, two counts for burglary; Robert Johnston, two counts for robbery; John Doan, Thomas Moore and Jack McCabe, each charged with auto theft; Leonard Lynch, forgery; Sanford Miller, operating an auto without the owner's consent, and Harry Duncan and Robert Johnson, each accused of arson.

INSTEAD of exercise

Don't suffer the consequences of persistent lack of exercise. Learn the simple secret of the exercise in the vest-pocket box for a dime! Millions know it!

Cascarets make bilious, head-achy, constipated people feel wonderful. Their effect is not only quick, but it's lasting. They give the bowels as much real exercise as they get from an hour in the saddle.

Oils, salts and ordinary laxatives do not act like Cascarets. These things produce only mechanical or chemical action. They actually weaken the bowels. You have to keep dosing with them.

Each time you use Cascarets, your bowels become stronger. They are made from Cascara Sagrada, which stimulates the natural peristaltic action of the bowel muscles. Nothing else does this. That accounts for the popularity of Cascarets and their tremendous sales of over 20 million packages a year!

UNDER THE MOON

By Laird

Under the silver moon what vows are spoken, what love tokens exchanged. Life is wonderful. Lovers see themselves drifting down life's stream, always smooth and moonlight flooded, always together and always happy.

Later, in the glare of the sun, things are not always so rosy, Dan

Cupid must have many anxious moments when criticisms of one another, jealousy and trivial misunderstandings creep in.

Wise is he if he steers the lovers once more under the magic spell of the moon where discord is forgotten in her silver spell.

Keep the moonlight glamour if you would be happy, you Lovers.

SKATER NOT SERIOUSLY HURT WHEN RUN OVER BY AUTOMOBILE

Although the front wheels of the car are said to have passed over his body, Charles Manor, 11, son of H. D. Manor, 709 W. Second St., sustained only bruises when he skated in the path of an auto driven by Miss Bertha Warner, nurse in the welfare department of The Hoover and Allison Co., and was knocked down by the machine at "Five Points" at 7:30 p. m. Tuesday.

The boy was taken by Miss Warner to his home, where an examination disclosed no bones were broken. Peter Shagin, motorcycle policeman, who investigated the accident, learned that it was unavoidable. Miss Warner turning off Second St., onto Cincinnati Ave., had no opportunity to swerve aside, he declared.

The youth was skating across the street and darted directly in front of the car, the officer said. The traffic officer took occasion to remind youngsters on roller skates of the warning issued by Police Chief M. E. Graham Tuesday.

Clarence Darrow, the famous Chicago criminal lawyer, left here for Pittsburgh early today blushing furiously over a "faux pas" which involved a bedroom scene in which a pajama-clad man and his wife were principals.

Darrow, an avowed agnostic, debated religious and scientific issues with three prominent orators here last night and after a gathering at the home of Ralph C. Hirsch in Bexley, returned to his hotel.

"Give me the key to Room 644," Darrow told the clerk. "Pardon me, Mr. Darrow, but your room is 1644," George C. Whitehead, director of the Forum, at which Darrow spoke, told the lawyer.

"No, it's 644," Darrow insisted and they started up in the elevator. At 644 Darrow put the key in the lock. He opened the door and Whitehead walked in and switched on the lights. They were in a reception room.

A woman's head appeared in the doorway of another room. "You're in the wrong suite," Darrow told her.

"No we're not," the woman replied and called her husband. The husband emerged, clad in pajamas.

He strode toward Darrow: "You're in the wrong room, Judge," he said, recognizing the lawyer, and he gently but persistently urged Darrow out the door.

A BUSY OLD LADY

It wouldn't be a treat, she said, if I should leave off working now, if I just sat all day and read, I'd be right nervous, I allow.

You know, when hands have worked their way down quite so many sets of years, They're puzzled-like, with time to play, And get all fluttery, it appears.

I feel the sunshine on my head, Out in my garden, and I see The song-birds flying overhead. That's rest enough, I guess, for me.

I'll be a long while dead and still— Man's time is short enough, my friend Life's good—I want to get my fill By keeping busy to the end!

BOY SCOUTS ENJOY SUGAR CAMP PARTY

Twenty-five Scouts, members of Troop No. 41, and nine troop committee men enjoyed a chicken roast at the D. H. Keifer sugar camp just off the Wilmington Pike Tuesday night.

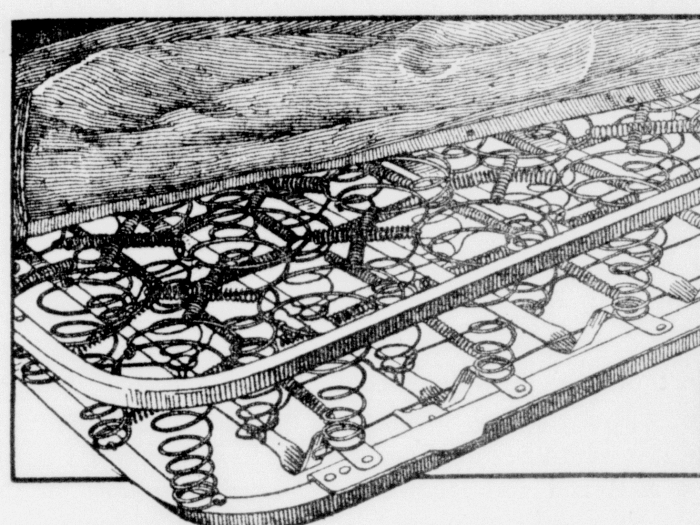

Irish and sweet potatoes were also baked in the ashes and as a finishing touch, the Scouts were treated to plenty of maple wax taffy, also prepared on the spot by Mr. and Mrs. Keifer and Mr. and Mrs. Hugh Barnes.

The evening proved ideal in every way for the party and much credit for the success of the affair is being given to members of the troop committee who felt well repaid for their efforts because the boys enjoyed themselves to the limit according to Scoutmaster R. H. Kingsbury.

The Ace Spring gives a Bed Foundation

It's a true saying that "a bed is as good as its spring."

By all means—get a good one. It may cost a dollar or two more than some other—but it's sleep insurance. And the slightly higher cost is more than equalized through a longer period of service.

Take this Ace Spring for example. Every coil in it (and there are more than in most springs) is made of tested wire. It will give just enough to support as well as rest the body. Small governor springs prevent side-sway. There is no rocking. Angle-iron top binding prevents tearing of sheets.

SKATER NOT SERIOUSLY HURT WHEN RUN OVER BY AUTOMOBILE

Although the front wheels of the car are said to have passed over his body, Charles Manor, 11, son of H. D. Manor, 709 W. Second St., sustained only bruises when he skated in the path of an auto driven by Miss Bertha Warner nurse in the welfare department of The Hooven and Allison Co., and was knocked down by the machine at "Five Points" at 7:30 p. m. Tuesday.

The boy was taken by Miss Warner to his home, where an examination disclosed no bones were broken.

Peter Shagin, motorcycle policeman, who investigated the accident, learned that it was unavoidable. Miss Warner turning off Second St., onto Cincinnati Ave., had no opportunity to swerve aside, he declared.

The youth was skating across the street and darted directly in front of the car, the officer said. The traffic officer took occasion to remind youngsters on roller skates of the warning issued by Police Chief M. E. Graham Tuesday.

DARROW GETS IN WRONG ROOM

COLUMBUS, O., March 13.—Clarence Darrow, the famous Chicago criminal lawyer, left here for Pittsburgh early today blushing furiously over a "faux pas" which involved a bedroom scene in which a pajama-clad man and his wife were principals.

Darrow, an avowed agnostic, debated religious and scientific issues with three prominent orators here last night and after a gathering at the home of Ralph C. Hirsch in Bexley, returned to his hotel. "Give me the key to Room 644," Darrow told the clerk.

"Pardon me, Mr. Darrow, but your room is 1644," George C. Whitehead, director of the Forum, at which Darrow spoke, told the lawyer.

"No, it's 644," Darrow insisted and they started up in the elevator. At 644 Darrow put the key in the lock. He opened the door and Whitehead walked in and switched on the lights. They were in a reception room.

A woman's head appeared in the doorway of another room. "You're in the wrong suite," Darrow told her.

"No we're not," the woman replied and called her husband. The husband emerged, clad in pajamas.

He strode toward Darrow: "You're in the wrong room, Judge," he said, recognizing the lawyer, and he gently but persuasively urged Darrow out the door.

A BUSY OLD LADY

"It wouldn't be a treat, she said, if I should leave off working now, if I just sat all day and read, I'd be right nervous, I allow."

You know, when hands have worked their way Down quite so many sets of years, They're puzzled-like, with time to play, And get all flustered, it appears.

I feel the sunshine on my head, Out in my garden, and I see The song-birds flying overhead. That's rest enough, I guess, for me.

I'll be a long while dead and still—Man's time is short enough, my friend Life's good—I want to get my fill By keeping busy to the end!

INSTEAD of exercise

Don't suffer the consequences of persistent lack of exercise. Learn the simple secret of the exerciser in the vest-pocket box for a dime! Millions know it!

Cascarets make bilious, head-achy, constipated people feel wonderful. Their effect is not only quick, but it's lasting. They give the bowels as much real exercise as they get from an hour in the saddle.

Oils, salts and ordinary laxatives do not act like Cascarets. These things produce only mechanical or chemical action. They actually weaken the bowels. You have to keep dosing with them.

Each time you use Cascarets, your bowels become stronger. They are made from Cascara Sagrada, which stimulates the natural peristaltic action of the bowel muscles. Nothing else does this. That accounts for the popularity of Cascarets and their tremendous sales of over 20 million packages a year!

BIBLE THOUGHT FOR TODAY

A GLORIOUS OUTLOOK—They shall teach no more every man his neighbor and every man his brother, saying, Know the Lord; for they shall all know me, from the least of them unto the greatest of them, saith the Lord: for I will forgive their iniquity, and I will remember their sin no more.—Jeremiah 31:34.

ADDRESS OF A REAL STATESMAN

The inaugural address by President Herbert Hoover is the speech of a statesman who has definite, matured ideas regarding the task which has fallen to his lot. It is sketched on a broad canvas, but there is nothing diffuse or vague about it. The President is clear in his utterances regarding the state of the republic and regarding the things that ought to be planned and done for its well being. He has high standards and high ideals, but he also is a practical man with a lively understanding of the limitations of human nature and human institutions. Consequently those who looked for anything rhapsodic in his address were disappointed.

Proceedings logically, Mr. Hoover considered first the dangers and shortcomings which hamper and threaten the United States. The real perils, as the President sees them, arise largely from within and "the most malign," he declares, "is disregard and disobedience of law." "Crime is increasing," he warns, "and confidence in rigid and speedy justice is decreasing." And in pursuance of this subject he utters some direct and emphatic words regarding enforcement of, and obedience to, the Eighteenth amendment, going straight to the heart of the prohibition problem as a practical administrative problem when he says:

"There would be little traffic in illegal liquor if only criminals patronized it. We must awake to the fact that this patronage from large numbers of law-abiding citizens is supplying the rewards and stimulating crime. * * * Our whole system of self-government will crumble, either if officials elect what laws they will enforce, or citizens elect what laws they will support."

However, Mr. Hoover contends that the complications caused by the Eighteenth amendment are only in part responsible for the growing impotency of law. He sees need for critical consideration of the entire federal machinery of justice, and it is typical of his methods that he should at once announce his purpose to "appoint a national commission for a searching investigation of the whole structure of our federal system of jurisprudence, to include the method of enforcement of the Eighteenth amendment and the causes of abuse under it."

Such a commission will find plenty of hard work to do. It will, as indicated, be specially charged with fulfillment of the President's pre-election pledge to look thoroughly into the subject of prohibition, which will be a big task, but its general duty promises to be even more intricate and difficult. A system of law administration and enforcement in a great nation cannot be analyzed and reconstructed even on paper by the best of experts except after months of careful labor. But there is no doubt that the job projected is badly needed. And the recommendations of a competent commission, such as the President undoubtedly will appoint, can be made of outstanding importance and great value to state and local governments, as well as to the federal government.

Your BROADWAY And Mine

By Walter Winchell

NEW YORK.—Vincent Lawrence's brother Warren parents "Conflict," which the Spad producing firm sponsors at the Fulton. And it is asserted by some of the foyer talkers that it marks Mr. Lawrence's debut as a legit attraction preparer. If the report is accurate, then the new attraction is a promising one, for "Conflict" which is an uneven and frequently spotty piece, is not without a compelling episode or two. What it appears to lack is a wallop and an extra supply of appeal. Perhaps the direction is faulty. Surely the troupe of seasoned players contributes gracefully to it, which probably gives the new entry some of its charm. It is played well, then, and one wishes as much could be said of the new playwright's initial effort.

Now and then it reaches out over the bulbs, holds you, and then it lets go. Only the fine playing of the pretenders grips you, and more's the pity, for most of them belong in a successful production. Let it be jotted down, then, that Warren F. Lawrence will probably provide something that will register some day.

It revolves about a young clerk who is caught in the draft of 1917 and serves in the flying corps. His skill in the air brings a captaincy, and he returns home with the distinction of bringing down, among other enemies, one of Germany's most famous aces. The ladies lionize him, and he rates most of the other rewards that come to heroes. But his head fates. He shelves The One Who Really Cared; he snubs his war buddies, and otherwise makes himself unpopular with the crowd from which he sprang. He was only a clerk, after all, Mr. Lawrence proves.

The Way of the World

BY GROVE PATTERSON

CHANCES

Constantino Raimo, proprietor of a New York bootblack stand, died the other day, leaving to his heirs $50,000. This meant lots of shoe shining, and hard work. Very likely many times he worked even more than eight hours a day. Doubtless Constantino did not save that $50,000 out of ten-cent pieces. He probably did some sound investing and watched his investments. Very likely he was not a crap shooter for large amounts. Gamblers frequently make money for a time. But there never seems to be any left when they die.

Few young men today would choose the trade of bootblack. Apparently even in that lowly calling there is a chance for distinct success. It only emphasizes the chances—so many of them—for anybody who watches opportunity instead of watching the clock.

CHINA NOT DEAD

China may be slow but she is not dead. Things doing there despite the need of modern transportation and political peace. Six thousand buildings were built in the city of Mukden, in that country, last year. If you want to keep some sort of perspective on the general affairs of mankind, read foreign news, magazines that deal with foreign affairs, and books about foreign lands. There is no defense for provincialism for living in the backwoods of the mind. There are plenty of ways of finding out what is going on in the world. Keep the doors and windows of the mind unlocked and open.

ILL WINDS

It's a cold winter that doesn't blow somebody good. California reports the heaviest tourist travel in ten years. Trains all winter have run in many sections. Florida receives its usual thousands. Widely distributed wealth enables more people every year to defeat the assaults of the seasons. Perhaps climate and weather are taken too seriously. Why not carry your own weather—inside of you? Why not let climate be a matter of the spirit?

STOPPING WAR

More powerful than any treaty for stopping of war abroad would be the decision of the United States government to prevent the export of munitions from these shores at the proper time. Arms sent from the United States and money loaned either by the government or private bankers make European war possible. Without American financing there will be little fighting.

UNIFORM REQUIREMENTS OF FEDERAL CONTRACTS URGED

By LOUIS C. CRAMTON

Congressman from Michigan.

(Louis C. Cramton was born in Lapeer county, Michigan, December 2, 1875. He attended the University of Michigan and received an L. L. B. degree. From 1899 to 1905 he practiced law at Lapeer, then published the Lapeer County Clarifier until 1923. He was law clerk of the Michigan state senate for three sessions. He was elected to congress in 1913 from the seventh Michigan district and has been re-elected each term since.)

The bill to establish uniform requirements for government contracts, which was not acted upon by the 70th congress, will be revised and reintroduced in the next regular session of congress.

I intend to reintroduce the revised form at the December session of the new congress, and to press it for enactment by congress. Meantime probably the interdepartmental board in the bureau of the budget, which formulated the bill, will give it further study and make such changes as may seem necessary.

The government does a business of $4,000,000,000 a year, which necessitates an almost countless number of contracts. The drafting of these contracts, the safeguarding of the rights of individuals under them, the construction of the terms of these contracts by the comptroller general of the United States, all are more involved than the work of the comptroller general in constraining contracts.

For a same special purpose there may be varying laws in the different branches of the government service. The purpose of my bill is to secure uniformity as to all departments of the government establishment in the making of contracts. That would ensure a more definite safeguarding of the interests of the government by using the common, well-known standards. It would make it much easier for individuals to do business, because they will become more familiar with the government. It would clarify the work of the comptroller general in constraining contracts.

The question arises—Is his sister, Mrs. Edward E. Gann, in whose home he has lived in Washington, entitled to the same social recognition that would be accorded to his wife, if he had one?

ANOTHER FIRST "TOUCH" OF SPRING

How to Achieve Beauty

BY MME. HELENA RUBINSTEIN

Spring is coming! And we must prepare for it if we would keep step with nature, whose plans are made so far in advance.

What will you do to make ready for spring? If you are a housewife, you'll think first, perhaps, of spring housecleaning. Closets to clear, and clothes to air. Painting to do, and new curtains to hang. Furniture to redecorate. So many things to do if you're a housewife.

And if you are a mother, as well as there are the children's spring clothes and spring tonics. Tonics for all the family! Sulphur and molasses, figs and senega. Whatever it is that you have found helpful in clearing out tired winter systems and freshening them for the spring, you'll think about it.

But if you are a wise woman, as well as a mother and wife or business person, you will also think of beauty. Spring clothes for yourself and a thorough spring housecleaning for your good looks to get them ready to meet the new season.

Winter plays such devastating tricks on female health and beauty. So many parties with late hours and rich food! So little exercise in the open air and sunlight. Houses too warmly heated and outdoor winds too cold and harsh to keep a complexion at its best. What do you do to restore your nice face to its loveliest spring freshness? You know that it can be done, but how will you go about it?

First take an inventory. Sim-

Behind the Scenes in Washington

By CHARLES P. STEWART

WASHINGTON.—Precedence is no joke in Washington.

Every official has his place in the social scheme of things. Some are very particular about it. Others make do until they get just their right seats at table, or if somebody gets through a doorway, at a party, ahead of somebody else who thinks he ought to have gone first.

Each official's wife has a place among the women, in the order of her precedence, corresponding to her husband's place among the men.

Unfortunately, disputes arise and occasionally one of them comes terrible and prolonged trouble.

Regular rules exist in all European capitals. They cover every imaginable contingency, and there is no getting around them. Here a few broad general principles are tacitly recognized, but details have to be worked out.

Consequently it is impossible to settle any difference of opinion authoritatively, especially if it involves a highly-complicated technicality.

For instance, the president obviously is the nation's first citizen. As his official heir apparent the vice president is No. 2. There is no doubt about it.

The president's wife just as clearly is the "first lady." Naturally, the vice president's wife is second on the list.

Study yourself frankly for failures and flaws so that you can plan wisely how to be rid of them. And be sure that not one is left out. Spring is the very time to make a fresh start to renew and revive and replenish. The time for a personal clearance sale and a completely perfect re-stocking.

Best to begin, I think, with your skin, because it is a clever index to your whole physical condition. Almost all the body's troubles, inside, outside, show up in your expressionistic skin. It is sallow, sluggish, lined, a little roughened here and there—perhaps especially at the elbows and the knees—and are the pores of your nose and chin clogged or tired-looking. If so, you need exercise to wake up your blood circulation. And a different diet, with more fruit and vegetables in it and plenty of rich milk. And you must drink at least eight glasses of water daily and get at least eight hours of sleep at night.

The beauty of your skin—as well as of your hair and eyes—is based on the health of your blood and circulation. Good blood to feed the tissues and good circulation to take it to them for their continuous feeding and the removal of impurities.

First, then, plan diet and exercise. After that, we must think about skin tonics and stimulants, clearing and bleaching creams. The way to take care of your hair and hands and those tiny, tired lines around your eyes.

But she has a husband—a Washington lawyer with no official rating whatever. It will not be easy to treat Mrs. Gann as of social consequence next after the "first lady" and Mr. Gann as nobody. Yet Mr. Gann can't "precede" everybody in Washington except the president. It would provoke an insurrection.

Besides his sister has not been mistress of Vice President Curtis' household. He has had none. Instead, he has lived with the Ganns—boarded with them, to put it prosaically.

Yet Mrs. Gann seems inclined to claim the social ranking of "vice presidential lady."

The row started with Charles G. Dawes as president of the Senate Ladies' club, an honor supposed to go to the vice president's wife. The club turned her down in favor of Mrs. George H. Moses, wife of the president pro tem of the senate.

Bitter was the feeling. It promises to become a lot bitterer.

Washington's last historic fight over "precedence" raged through Chief Justice Fuller's long incumbency on the federal bench.

He claimed the right to "precedence" ambassadors who, in turn, insisted on preceding him, because as they said, they represented their respective sovereign countries, while he simply was head of one branch of this government. They never settled it.

The ambassador how to Chief Justice Taft, as an ex-president, but who knows?—it may start all over again when he retires—unless ex-President Coolidge is appointed to succeed him.

Unless you have a very large family the recipe for macaroni salad can be at least cut in half.

Cook all the macaroni, however, use what you need for the salad and the rest for the macaroni and cheese supper dish.

Today's Recipes.
Macaroni Salad.—One cup diced celery, one cup sliced onion, one cup diced carrots, one cup sliced cabbage, two chopped tomatoes, two teaspoons chopped parsley, one teaspoon salt, mayonnaise. Cook macaroni in boiling salted water until tender. Drain and cool. Add other ingredients. Serve very cold on lettuce.

Apple Pudding.—One cup sugar, one tablespoon butter, one egg, one cup milk, two teaspoons baking powder, two cups flour. Cut apples in eighths and spread a layer on top.

Butter Scotch Hard Sauce.—One cup light brown sugar, one cup butter, one egg, one cup milk. Cream the butter, add the sugar gradually and beat until very light. Add the egg yolks and milk and beat well.

SUGGESTIONS
Choosing the Meat.

Tender cuts of meat for roasting, broiling and frying, and the less tender meat for cooking with moist heat are the general rule in most households. Slow cooking under moist heat makes meat more tender, while cooking under dry heat leaves the meat much less tender. Only tender meat, then, lends itself to cooking by dry heat.

In spite of this general rule, cuts of unusual tenderness are bought for pot roasting, boiled beef and ragouts. For, as any experienced marketman or housewife knows, the higher the quality of the meat, the better it will satisfy, whether cooked by dry or moist heat. Less time is required in cooking the better cuts on casserole, or potting.

The one shining exception to the rule, that the higher the quality of the meat, the greater the satisfaction, is corn. The flavor and gelatinous nature of shins of beef, for instance, is preferred for soup making to the better and higher-priced cuts of beef. Bones are the cheapest part of the carcass that can be bought, and yet there is probably nothing to take the place of the marrow in the bones. Marrow is chiefly fat, of course, but it is blended with other valuable food substances in such a way that a distinct flavor is imparted.

Diet and Health

Stiff Joints.
"A few times each week the joints of my fingers get stiff and the fingers swell. It lasts only overnight. The same thing occurs in the knees. I am suffering from acid stomach. I am normal weight, but very flabby. C"

Your acid stomach may show that your diet is unbalanced, or it may be reflexly caused from some infectious spot in the body—gall bladder, appendix, etc. C. If you are not having a balanced diet and are not getting sufficient of the needed elements, ultimately many disorders can arise—joint inflammations among them. I think you had better have a thorough check-up by a competent physician to see where your trouble lies.

We have an article on Balanced Diet, one on Joint Inflammations and one on the Abdominal Wall which gives some splendid exercises for the trunk and back muscles, which will help you. It seems to me that it would be easier for one to keep his weight normal than to get fat and then have to reduce. There must be a difference in the quantity or the quality of your food now, F., or you are not so physically active as you were. The fact that you are gaining shows that you are getting a little more nourishment than you need for your activities.

Living and Loving

BY MRS. VIRGINIA LEE

When a person marries just to escape an unpleasant situation at home it is very much like the proverbial jumping from the frying pan into the fire. One can leave home if necessary, and sometimes from the experience thus gained one can see that, after all it was not such a bad place as it seemed.

But it is not so easy to escape matrimony. One takes on certain responsibilities— or should—and divorce is not so easy after all, and is attended usually by a good deal of undesirable publicity and unpleasantities.

And marriage without love is a pretty doubtful proposition, too. After the honeymoon life resolves itself into pretty much of a humdrum. There are continual meals to be gotten, dishes to be washed, laundry to be taken care of, floors and furniture to be cleaned, and if you are not present to do these arduous tasks a wonderfully romantic pastime, the going is hard and monotonous for the wife. And for the husband it means hard work at his job which he dares not risk for a living with a wife as dependent on him.

"DEAR VIRGINIA LEE: I am a young girl just out of home life. I am very unhappy because of my stepmother who, for some reason, dislikes in every way and does all she can to make me miserable. It is necessary for my father to go away for a year. I cannot bear the thought of leaving a dear friend, a mother, a sister and a dear friend. I am not in love with him, but anything seems better than what I will have to endure if I stay at home. Shall I risk it? Please answer soon, for I am in great trouble. "JENNY"

Just as I said in the first part of the column today, Jenny, I look to me is it a very good idea. I am afraid he was not really in love in the first place. Giggles, although he must have liked you to be jealous of the other chap. He's a person who sticks to his point, isn't he, as he still asks you about this other chap, whom he has told him time and again did not interest you. I suppose he met the other girl and was as attracted to her as that is the reason he dropped you. It's seeming indifference to the act that she goes with others is odd, but men are odd creatures, Giggles. It takes more than a mere woman like myself to understand their crystal clear mind. They appear to many women writers. I expect they don't often understand themselves any more than we do ourselves.

Peter's Adventures

BY MRS. FLORENCE SMITH VINCENT

PRIDE KEEPS DRAKE CALM
The more he thought about the impatient frogs the angrier Drake grew. Suddenly he began to scold Peter.

"You take the frog's part, do you? You hateful creature, giving your opinion when nobody asks you for it! Why are you, anyhow? I should like to know the body of much sense, I'd be bound to say."

Peter laughed until his sides ached and the tears ran down his face every black feather in his neck stood up straight, and he cheeks. "Mr. Drake was so angry opened and closed his beak with such loud snaps that the boy could hear them from where he stood on the bank.

"Ha, ha, ha! If only you knew how funny you look, my dear Drake, I am sure you would laugh!" cried Peter. "But I am a bit becoming to you, and when you really are so handsome what is the use of looking ugly? Since you ask me, I am the youngest Two-Legs who lives on that farm beyond the woods. You have never met me, but I know you well!"

At the boy's last remark, Drake's beak dropped open; he appeared to be very much surprised—too dumbfounded to speak, in fact—but he turned around and slowly paddled toward the bank.

Peter was glad to see the fellow ed butter, one cup chopped raisins, one teaspoon cinnamon, one-half teaspoon nutmeg, two teaspoons soda in a little cold water, two cups flour.

SPORT SNAP SHOTS

FRAMED
by Phil

Teams expecting to enter the softball leagues being sponsored in Xenia this summer are now in the process of formation. League officials are pointing out that eligibility lists of all teams must be submitted to the league commission on or before March 31.

To date only two teams have sent in their lists—the Xenia Post Office and the Phi Delta Kappa Fraternity. It is hoped to organize not more than ten teams for the two leagues which will be known again as the National and American.

Six teams will compose the National League and four teams the American with five playing days available.

Other teams expected to enter include The Downtown Country Club, Harness Cigar Store, 1928 city champions, the Lang Chevrolet Co., the Hoover and Allison Co., and the American Legion.

It is not believed that Kiwanis, Rotary, Firemen, Hudson-Excess, Carroll-Hinder Co. and Xenia Central High School will have teams this year. The firemen and post office will combine their forces and it is possible Kiwanis and Rotarians may also go together.

Hudson-Excess has not been heard from and many high school players are said to have signed up with Langs, which will present a strong aggregation.

Contrary to a recent prediction, the coaches of the six schools comprising the Miami Valley League, did not select all-star first and second basketball teams for the 1929 season when they attended the league meeting here Tuesday night.

It was learned that the coaches are sending in their selections to a Dayton paper, probably out of consideration for the fact that paper awards a trophy to the league basketball champions, which, however, must be won three years in order to be retained permanently. It seems that in all fairness instead of showing this preference it would be better if the coaches made known their all-league selections at the regular meeting of league representatives after each football and basketball season. Oh well.

Only two bowlers in the Xenia Recreation League have the distinction of having never missed a game this season. Brickell and Dice, both members of the champion Greene County Lumber Co. team, have rolled in each of the twenty-eight games played to date, never missing a scheduled match. Brickell is fourth high average man in the league with a mark of 133.15 while Dice is in eleventh place with an average of 128.1.

Notwithstanding the fact that his suggestion didn't get very far with the rulemakers, John Heydler, president of the National League, is still convinced that his ideas for ten-man baseball teams with the tenth man batting for the pitcher each time is a good one. He may be right.

There is this to be said, however. Supposing Heydler's proposed rule had been in effect say ten or fifteen years ago. The baseball world might never have heard of Babe Ruth except that he was a good southpaw pitcher. You know he started out as a hurler and was converted into an outfielder because of his batting prowess which makes him the outstanding figure in the baseball world today.

GAME CALLED OFF

A post-season double-header between the Class B boys' and girls' champion basketball teams of Greene and Clark Counties for 1929, scheduled to be played at Memorial Hall in Springfield Tuesday night, failed to materialize.

The twin bill in which Springfield Valley High boys and the unbeaten Bellbrook High girls' teams were scheduled to participate, was called off entirely by the Clark County schools, it was announced.

Miami Valley League To Hold Track Meet

GREENVILLE WILL SPONSOR EVENTS; PLANNED FOR MAY 4

Fourteen Events On Program; Baseball Is Ruled Out

Decision to hold a track meet at Greenville Saturday, May 4 constituted practically the only major business transacted by officials of the Miami Valley League at a dinner-meeting at Xenia Central High School Tuesday night.

Greenville extended an invitation to the schools to enter the meet.

Fourteen events will comprise the program, including eight track events and six field contests. At least five of the six schools which comprise the league will send representatives to compete in the 100, 220 and 440-yard dashes, 880-yard run, mile run, mile relay, 120-yard hurdles, 220-yard low hurdles, pole vault, high jump, broad jump, discus throw, javelin throw and twelve-pound shot put.

The various events are scheduled for the afternoon but qualifying heats for the 100 and 220-yard dashes and the 120-yard high hurdles will be held in the morning.

Following past custom, the entertaining school, since it receives all the proceeds from the "gate," will award a trophy to the winner of the meet.

Discussing other spring athletics for the league, the officials decided not to deal with baseball since none of the schools will have teams. Dual home-and-home matches are to be arranged in tennis and golf with the participating schools pooling their finances for the awarding of small trophies in each sport.

Xenia Central High School was formally awarded the league basketball trophy for the second straight year and each school will be assessed $3 to pay for the award.

The league representatives also adopted a round robin schedule of regular meetings. The next regular meeting preceding the opening of the football season this fall will be held at Mansfield September 23. Succeeding meetings will be held at Piqua, Greenville, Sidney, Troy, and Xenia in the order named. The league holds three sessions each year, preceding and following the football season and after the basketball season.

The Xenia session was attended by coaches, principals and faculty members of the six schools and covers were laid for twenty-four guests at the dinner served in the cafeteria before the business meeting opened.

HOLD-OUTS STILL BLOSSOM

NEW YORK, March 13.—A month and three days before the opening of the baseball season, nineteen major league players are classed as holdouts.

A complete list of the unsigned players compiled by the United Press follows:
Paul Waner, Pirates; Lloyd Waner, Pirates; Dazzy Vance, Brooklyn; Max Bishop, Athletics; Johnny Hodapp, Indians; Bill Hume, White Sox; Sam Jones, Senators; Goose Goslin, Senators; Val Pichler, Reds; Hugh McMullen, Reds; Charley Dressen, Reds; Curt Walker, Reds; Ernie Ott, Cardinals; Herbie Mann, Tigers; Frank McGowan, Tigers; Joe Dugan, Braves; Bill Clark, Braves.

The Waners, Vance, Hodapp, Bishop and Hume are regarded as the most serious holdouts of the group. The Waners are asking for $25,000—Paul wants $20,000 and Lloyd $15,000. Vance is demanding $25,000—$25,000 more than Brooklyn wants to pay. Bishop says he will devote his time to real estate holdings at Baltimore unless Connie Mack gives him a $2,000 increase over last year's salary. Mack has offered him a $1,000 boost.

ROTARY PRESIDENT HONORED TUESDAY

D. W. Cherry, president of the Rotary Club, was pleasantly surprised Tuesday noon by members at the regular weekly meeting at the Elks' Club on the occasion of his birthday.

The program opened with several musical selections by the Misses Helen Ford and Hurley. One of their selections was a birthday song written to fit the occasion.

Following the songs Frederick Anderson, S. N. McClellan, and Louis Hammerle entered with a large box in which Mr. Cherry found a birthday cake and many amusing trinkets.

An automatic pencil was presented to him as a gift from the club and Frank L. Smith and C. S. Frazer gave short talks in his honor.

THE MEADOWLARKS—Circumstances Alter Cases

STIVERS ENTERS STATE COURT TOURNEY WITH STRONG RECORD

COLUMBUS, O., March 13.—Dayton Stivers will travel to this state high school basketball tournament here Friday with an enviable season record to back up its claim for the second consecutive title and the sixth for their school.

For a high school team, this state high school basketball tournament is a smart brand of basketball. Their superiority over the average scholastic team was clearly demonstrated in the sectional and district meets.

While it is true that the competition in the state eliminations will be more severe than the first two tournaments, close followers of the game are predicting the Stivers crew will be crowned champions of the Buckeye state Saturday night.

Canton McKelvey, Dover and Columbus Central are the other teams looked upon as strong contenders for the title.

Out of twenty-two games played during the regular season Stivers has won twenty-one. With a dashing offense and air-tight defense, the 1928 state champions have scored 977 points to 343 for their opponents. This is an average score of 44 to 15 a game.

The scoring has been done mainly by two players, Captain Bobby Colburn, forward, and Bill Hosket, six foot four inch center. Between them they have registered 527 points, forming a rather neat scoring machine. These two men, however, will be covered like a baby's crib on a below zero night in the tournament and whether they will be able to continue their basket shooting remains to be seen.

Colburn's total is 281, nearly thirteen points a game, while Big Boy Hosket, center on the last year mythical five, has amassed 246 points, more than eleven a game.

McAfee is Colburn's running mate, and a good one, too. They form one of the prettiest pair of forwards in the state.

The defense is shouldered by Herb Brown, Sam Andrews and Bob Albright, three clever guards.

Five teams appear to be in the fight for the Class B championship. They are Youngstown, Marysville, Belfton, Boardman and West Chester. In three years Marysville, winners of the central district title at Delaware, has won fifty-six games and lost eight, a record paralleled by few small high schools in this part of the country.

The morning session opened at 10:30 o'clock and was of special interest to all chapters in the district. Mrs. Ethel B. Webster, past matron of Norris Chapter of Springfield, field and president of the eighth district, presided at the session. Dinner was served in the temple at noon and music was furnished throughout the affair by Antioch Chapter, of Yellow Springs.

The afternoon session opened at 1:30 o'clock and was featured by an address by the worthy grand matron and a school of instruction with Mrs. Inez Armstrong, Osborn, deputy grand matron of this district, in charge.

PLEASANT RELIEF FROM CONSTIPATION

Shoulders droop under weight of years. Young, yet beauty has fled. Cheeks are sallow and drawn. Unsightly pimples. Keep your system clean and you keep the beauty of youth. Its energy. Its irresistible charm. Then life is not a failure.

Clogged bowels and inactive liver cause poisons to seep through the system. Health vanishes and with it beauty and energy. Dr. Edwards' Olive Tablets will save you from this dark hour. For 20 years they have been prescribed in place of calomel to men and women seeking health and freedom from constipation. They act easily and smoothly. No dangerous gripping. Take nightly before retiring. Results will amaze you.

Thousands of men and women would never be without Dr. Edwards' Olive Tablets, a vegetable compound mixed with olive oil. Know them by their olive color. 15c, 30c, 60c.

"But I had reckoned without Konjola. Just think, six bottles of this remarkable compound banished the awful neuritis, the stubborn stomach trouble that had held me in their clutches for twenty-five years! I would gladly tell personally my experience to any who doubt this statement. Today, at 70, I can eat anything I want, my body is free from pain, I sleep perfectly, and am enjoying life as I have not been able to for twenty-five years. I hope the world can read this statement, I want everyone to know what Konjola means to all who suffer."

Konjola is different from any other known remedy in this section. It contains 22 juices extracted from natural plants, which invigorate the stomach, liver, kidneys and bowels to a more healthy action. XENIANS PLEASE IN PROGRAM BY RADIO

The Misses Helen Hurley, contralto, and Helen Ford, soprano, this city, made their bow to local radio listeners—and it was an auspicious one—when they were heard with pleasure in a broadcast of representative melodies of popular appeal for a half hour over Station WSMK, in Dayton Tuesday evening.

Having acquired considerable local reputation, the Misses Helen, who need no introduction, lived up to expectations and demonstrated they know how to sell their warbling merchandise. They were on the air from 10 to 10:30 p. m. with an entertaining program of vocal solos and duets interspersed with piano solos by Miss Hurley.

A large number of Xenia admirers "tuned in" for the program and sent messages of congratulation.

NEW COUNTRY CLUB NEAR COUNTY LINE HAS PUBLIC LINKS

The Greenmount Country Club, which will be a public golf links, located on the south side of the Dayton-Xenia Pike at the county line separating Greene and Montgomery Counties, will be ready for use about August 1. Officers, organization and plans of the club, recently incorporated to operate the golf course, were announced Monday by E. P. Larsh, president of the Master Electric Co. in Dayton and president of the new club.

Officers of the club elected recently are: Larsh, president; A. D. Wenrick, vice-president and manager; H. E. Kline, treasurer, and Attorney J. A. Wortman, secretary.

In order to provide housing for equipment and a club house, farm buildings and a residence purchased with two adjoining estates taken over last fall will be remodeled.

A herd of forty cows purchased with the farm property has been kept and is being operated by the Greenmount Dairy Co., separately organized by incorporators of the country club, Larsh, Kline and Wortman.

The Misses Helen Hurley, contralto, and Helen Ford, soprano, this city, made their bow to local radio listeners—and it was an auspicious one—when they were heard with pleasure in a broadcast of representative melodies of popular appeal for a half hour over Station WSMK, in Dayton Tuesday evening.

Having acquired considerable local reputation, the Misses Helen, who need no introduction, lived up to expectations and demonstrated they know how to sell their warbling merchandise. They were on the air from 10 to 10:30 p. m. with an entertaining program of vocal solos and duets interspersed with piano solos by Miss Hurley.

A large number of Xenia admirers "tuned in" for the program and sent messages of congratulation.

NO PATIENCE WITH CHILDREN

Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable
Compound Steadied Her Nerves

Dalton, Pa.—"I was weak, nervous and run-down before my last baby was born. My other children tired me. I had no patience with them and they just wore me out. My mother told me about Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound and it helped her. I took it myself and got fine results. I am getting along fine now, thanks to your Vegetable Compound. My husband and I both feel sure that it helped me."—MRS. RAYMOND STAGE, R. F. D. 2, Dalton, Pa.

"I love large audiences... especially when there's not a cough in a house-ful!"

"Those of us who are on the stage ought to be rated as experts on coughs. We study them constantly, because how we dread them!

"If an actor coughs, he can't say his lines. If the audience coughs, it won't hear his lines. So the nuisance of coughing gets us, going and coming.

"I smoke sparingly, when I smoke. But recently I was introduced to OLD GOLDS. Since then I've doubled my smoking ration. First, because I like OLD GOLDS; second, because they like me... they are so good to my throat.

"If you should attend a future performance of mine, and the lady next to you doesn't cough because she read this piece, you should be grateful to me for having written it. So should she... and so should I."

Beatrice Lillie
